

YOUR SUCCESS

Earning a college degree marks a major achievement in your life. How you use that degree can determine your career success.

When you become an Air Force officer you not only make a real difference in your life, but in others' as well. Your leadership and management skills are more than just resume fillers. They're highly valued by Airmen who rely on your guidance and judgment.

CAREER FIELDS

Only four percent of our officers are pilots. That means we have many non-rated and non-technical career fields that are just as important and just as critical to the Air Force mission.

Each job carries its own unique challenges and opportunities offering you important professional growth and experience you can use in the civilian world.

NON-TECHNICAL OFFICER CAREER FIELDS INCLUDE:

- > Acquisition Management
- > Air Liaison
- > Aircraft Maintenance
- > Airfield Operations
- > Combat Rescue
- > Contracting
- > Cost Analysis
- > Financial Management
- > Intelligence
- > Missile Maintenance
- > Logistics Readiness
- > Personnel and Manpower
- > Public Affairs
- > Security Forces
- > Special Investigations
- > Special Tactics
- > Missile Operations
- > Space Operations

Your recruiter can provide you with a complete list of career field openings and detailed information on specific degree requirements.

REQUIREMENTS

To be considered for an officer commission, you must first meet the following requirements:

Be a U.S. citizen

Have a bachelor's degree

Be 18-34 years of age

Be commissioned before age 35

Meet physical requirements

Have a good moral character

Score competitively on the Air Force Officer Qualifying Test

As an applicant, you'll be evaluated for character, academic accomplishments, community service and leadership potential. Selection is competitive and based on your desires, qualifications, degree and the needs of the Air Force.

TOTAL FORCE OFFICER TRAINING

If selected, you'll attend Total Force Officer Training (TFOT) at Maxwell Air Force Base in Montgomery, Alabama. TFOT is a fast-paced, intensive 30 hour pre-arrival, pre-requisite web-based training then an eight-week program that will challenge you both mentally and physically, and prepare you for leadership. But, it's well worth it. The goal of TFOT is to prepare you to lead with vision, honor and integrity.

When you graduate, you'll be commissioned as a second lieutenant with a service commitment and guaranteed job for four years. Most newly commissioned officers attend a technical school after TFOT. The length of schooling depends on your specialty.

BENEFITS

The Air Force way of life is hard to beat. Some of the many perks you'll enjoy include:

An excellent starting salary with regular pay raises.

30 days of vacation with pay each year.

Tax-free food, clothing and housing allowances.

Comprehensive medical and dental care.

Opportunities for advanced education at little or no cost.

Live, work and travel around the world.

Use of base recreational and sports facilities.

Thrift Savings Plan similar to a 401(k).
